

A talk on Studying in the USA - Reminder

Dear Parent

For those who are unaware, Rachel Nelson, who represents the Harvard Club of the United Kingdom, will be coming into School at 5pm on Tuesday 28 April to deliver a talk about Applying to US Universities.

The talk will cover the US higher education system generally, using Harvard as an example, although most exemplars will apply to the majority of US universities. Rachel will cover the differences between UK and US higher education; what is involved in an application and how applications are assessed; how to research universities; and what financial aid might be available. There will be time for questions at the end of the presentation.

This is an excellent opportunity to understand whether the US higher education system is the right fit for your son or daughter, and Rachel will provide a plethora of practical information to get your research and application started.

The talk will take place in the Hall and parking will be on site through Gate 1.
